SUPPLY CHAINS, POLICIES AND PROTECTIONS

Supply chains

CAPRA's business operates within the freight transportation sector. Supplier relationships support the equipment, goods and services needed to carry out its transport activities. These relationships form part of the Company's consideration of forced-labour and child-labour risks.

CAPRA carried out supplier review during the Reporting Period in connection with forced-labour and child-labour risks. The Company is not aware of any related case or complaint involving its suppliers.

Policies and protections

CAPRA maintained a Code of Conduct during the Reporting Period. The Code of Conduct provides the framework for the Company's expectations regarding business conduct. The Code of Conduct, supplier review and staff training formed part of the Company's approach to addressing forced-labour and child-labour concerns.

Staff training

CAPRA carried out staff training during the Reporting Period in connection with the Company's conduct standards and forced-labour and child-labour risks. Training formed part of the Company's measures to support awareness of these matters within its business.

RISK, REMEDIATION AND EFFECTIVENESS

Assessing and managing risk

CAPRA's direct operations and its supplier relationships are distinct areas for consideration. The Company's Code of Conduct and staff training address business conduct and awareness within its operations. Supplier review extends consideration of forced-labour and child-labour risks to the businesses supporting its activities.

These measures formed the Company's approach to addressing such risks during the Reporting Period. CAPRA is not aware of any forced-labour or child-labour case or complaint in its operations or involving its suppliers.

Remediation measures

With no known forced-labour or child-labour case identified, no case-specific remediation measures are reported for the Reporting Period.

No loss of income to vulnerable families arising from remediation of an identified forced-labour or child-labour case has been reported to the Company. Accordingly, no related income-restoration measures are reported for the Reporting Period.

Assessing effectiveness

This report records the measures undertaken during the Reporting Period: the Code of Conduct, supplier review and staff training. No related case or complaint was known to the Company.

No quantitative effectiveness results or independent evaluation are presented in this report.
